RBI issued a notice on Compliance functions in banks and role of CCO

Reserve Bank of India has released a notice on Compliance Functions in Banks and the Role of Chief Compliance Officer (CCO). According to the compliance system Banks required, to have an effective compliance culture, independent corporate compliance function, and a strong compliance risk management programme at the bank and group level. Such an independent compliance function is required to be headed by a designated Chief Compliance Officer (CCO). Check here the details about Compliance Functions in Banks and the Role of Chief Compliance Officer (CCO):

The duties and responsibilities of the compliance function

The compliance function is to help the bank in managing its compliance risk, which can be defined as the risk of legal or regulatory sanctions, financial loss, or loss of prominence a bank may suffer as a result of its failure to fulfil with all applicable laws, regulations, codes of conduct and standards of good practice (together, "laws, rules and standards"). Compliance risk is sometimes also introduced to as integrity risk because a bank's prominence is closely connected with its adherence to principles of integrity and fair dealing. Banking supervisors must be satisfied that effective compliance policies and procedures are followed and that management takes appropriate corrective action when breaches of laws, rules, and standards are identified.

These shall include at least the following activities:

- To appraise the Board and senior management on regulations, rules, and standards, and any further developments.
- To provide clarification on any compliance-related issues.
- To conduct an assessment of the compliance risk (at least once a year) and to develop a risk-oriented activity plan for compliance assessment. The activity plan should be submitted to the ACB for approval and be made available to the internal audit.
- To report promptly to the Board / ACB / MD & CEO about any major changes/observations relating to the compliance risk.
- To periodically report on compliance failures/breaches to the Board/ACB and circulating to the concerned functional heads.
- To monitor and periodically test compliance by performing sufficient and representative compliance testing. The results of the compliance testing should be placed on Board/ACB/MD & CEO.
- To examine the sustenance of compliance as an integral part of compliance testing and annual compliance assessment exercise.
- To ensure compliance of Supervisory observations made by RBI and/or any other directions in both letter and spirit in a time-bound and sustainable manner.
